A Country House,

And about 200 acres of Land, within 3 miles of Alexandria, will be sold by the subscriber. The house was formerly occupied by himself, and is about one third of a mile from his present dwelling. The situation is high and remarkably healthy. The house has 4 rooms, and a kitchen and pantry, on the lower floor, and four chambers with fire places in the 2d story. It was well built under the superintendance of Mr. Lovering, a respectable English architect, and would make a comfortable summer retreat for a genteel family, or might be made a valuable Tavern by opening a road through the land. About one half of the land is in wood; the residue is capable of being made handsome grounds. There is a good well and pump in the yard; and there are several good springs on the land.

The terms of payment will be one fifth in four months; the residue in four equal annual payments with interest; one half secured by notes well endorsed, and the whole by a deed of trust on the land.

Possession may be had immediately.

From the United States Gazette

We have received from a correspondent at Trieste a news paper of that place in the Italian language, from which the following was translated. It may serve as an amusing specimen of the style in which the people of that place speak of their Emperour. We learn through the same channel that our respectable fellow townsman, Mr. John Allen, had the honour of accompanying the Emperour of Austria in his barge on board an American merchant ship, and conversed familiarly with his majesty for nearly half an hour, principally on the subject of commerce with the United States. The Emperour professed himself highly gratified by the communications which he received from Mr. Allen. It is said to be ascertained that the Emperour will bestow some commercial advantages upon his Adriatick Ports, either by making them the only channels for the introduction of foreign merchandize into his dominions, or by laying excessive duties on those introduced through Hamburg, Bremen &c.

Translated from the Trieste Observer, 30th April, 1816.

The pride of our city, comes this day marked in letters of gold, as an epoch the most propitious, the most glorious, the most joyful. Invoked and attracted by the fervid vows, and by an antient wish of this loyal and obedient people, his Majesty the Emperour and King, Francis the 1st, our most clement Sovereign, arrived from Gorizia, at eleven o'clock this morning, followed by his imperial retinue. For several days his Excellency Signior Baron de Rosetti, the chief of our government, prepared to meet his sacred and imperial Majesty at Glorizia, and Adquileja, where he was on a visit to those ancient relicks of Roman grandeur.

The two deputations from the city and the merchants of Trieste, upon reaching the borders of the territory of St. Croix, humbled themselves before the most august Sovereign, doing formal homage with all the submission and obsequiousness. His Majesty the Emperour most graciously received these deputations, in the fullness of his sovereign grace, and was most beningly pleased to assure them of their being dear to his paternal heart—whilst they at the same time, acknowledged their sentiments of unshaken attachment to his imperial dynasty, unequivocally proved for upwards of three centuries, in all the vicissitudes of his faithful and beloved Triestians.

Two triumphal colums of beautiful marble of Carnico, erected on an eligible site, will commemorate to the remotest posterity, the remembrance of this happy arrival, with the devout expressions of a joyful and grateful country, which will be expressed in an inscription placed on this monument.

On the road through which his majesty passed in the territory of Trieste, toward the city, in every village, every town, and in every street, the cheerful people, with cordial reverence, postrated themselves invoking the benediction of Heaven upon the adored Monarch.

His majesty at length, arriving at the new barrier of this city, more than 2000 citizens, all cloathed in black, pressing up on one another, with the most lively impulse of respectable vassalage, hastened to perform the first tributary honours, with joyful obsequiousness, expressing also their feelings in a poem which the Emperour most graciously received; and which will soon be made known to the public. In the meanwhile, the august appearance of his Imperial and Royal Majesty, incited in every class of persons in Trieste, a delicious sensation—a sweet contention of affection, every heart expanding with the most tender sentiments—every moment displaying the most characteristick and most energetick demonstrations of indescribable joy. Considering there is most just cause of mourning at present, so as even to check the universal exultation, festive acclamations however, continued upon the lips of all the variety of spectators, solemnly saluting the Father of the Country, applauding the Regenerator of his people, and the Pacificator of the world.

In the streets through which he passed, from all the windows, and from every access, the cheerful multitude traced with warmth the footsteps of the adored Emperour, and with enthusiasm, at the sight of his venerated august presence, expressed the real joy of affectionate children, who, after a long and anxious attendence, tasted the happiness of seeing their long wished for father, surrounded by the splendour of the most rare virtues; accomplishing a scene of the most sincere and real public respect, which the Emperour regarded with the most humane kindness.

In the street del Corso, and at the exchange, companies of the territorial militia of Trieste, and the regiment, Lusignan, so well qualified by its soldier like appearance, were arrayed before his majesty the Emperour and King. The view of the edifice of the Exchange, thro' a flight of arches disposed and designed by elegant artifice, presented the interesting picture of persons of all nations, crowded in Trieste, who expressed their common gratitude upon the reestablishment of the commerce of the most august Emperour, over whose stately portal was raised the curved Iris of peace.

In the midst of the never to be interrupted effusions of the publick rejoicing, his majesty, passing under a triumphal arch, where a few respectful cyphers proclaimed Cæsar, the benefactor of the human race, ascended to his residence in the governmental palace. Pursuing his magnanimous style, truly of Cesarean clemency and courtesy, his majesty, immediatety after his most happy arrival and in the most prosperous state of health, condescended to receive in a body, the civil and military authorities doing solemn homage, in their felicitation and rejoicings.

But in the midst of this intoxicating feeling of the soul, if the foregoing respect, impose the painful duty of touching again on the sad remembrance of our recent loss, so precious to the tender heart of his majesty, whilst it brings back upon the brow, tears the most pathetic; may he draw from them a new species of comfort, and remember that the hearts of his subjects are all equally participating, in the great and bitter loss which has been sustained.

The different authorities had scarcely departed, when his majesty, with the proper energy of his mind, surmounting, or rather submitting to those feeling, was always occupied in acting for the best; and for the contentment and felicity of his children, he made it an important consideration to satisfy the most earnest wishes of the very numerous and overflowing populace—appearing often at the windows, to answer with evident marks of the most benevolent acceptance, the incessant demonstrations of the universal joy.

After dinner, his majesty the emperor went in a barge, richly decorated, to visit the imperial and royal frigate the Austria, anchored in this road. Afterwards at the instance of the highly esteemed American merchant, John Allen, his majesty graciously condescended to go on board of the American ship Richmond, commanded by captain Hugan, lately arrived from Philadelphia, with a rich cargo.

To aid the Cause of Virtue and Religion

METHODIST TRACT SOCIETY.

Extract from the Sixth Annual Report of the Methodist Tract Society, in Sheffield, (England) written by Montgomery, the Poet.

All the means of grace have their peculiar advantages, and many are adapted to peculiar circumstances. The dissemination of religious tracts is especially so. There are persons who never read the word of God, who never attend public worship, who, from heedlessness, prejudice or hatred, concern not themselves about the things that belong to their peace. A Tract is a missile weapon, which the Spirit of God may direct to the conviction and conversation of a sinner, unassailable from any other quarter. It falls in the way of such a one—he would be ashamed to look at it among his companions, but he is alone, and he has nothing else to do—something in the title attracts his eye—its brevity tempts his indolence—he begins to read it with indifference, perhaps with repugnance, but his curiosity being excited, and feeling himself gradually more & more interested, he proceeds with diminishing prejudice & increasing seriousness to the end. He has got through with it, but he has not done with it; he lays it out of his hand, but he cannot lay it out of his mind; its story has not passed through his imagination only, like an arrow through the invulnerable air, but it has pierced his heart his understanding, his conscience, and in each it has left a wound, that cannot be healed; the anguish of which is only inflamed by vain arts to assuage it; for he shuns the recollection of the things that alarmed him, the closer they haunt him; and the very attempt to forget the words, indelibly fixes them in his remembrance. In this distress he seeks pleasure where formerly he found it, but he finds it no more; he seeks rest in unbelief and obduracy, but rest is no more there; his peace is slain; the world can never again be to him what it has been—happiness & repose he must possess in religion, or renounce all prospect of either for ever. Then, and not till then, when every refuge of lies has failed him, he lays hold of the hope set before him in the Gospel, and in bitterness of soul exclaims, "what shall I do to be saved?"—The answer is nigh unto him;—Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. He does believe, and he is saved.

This is merely stating a single example, among thousands that do, and millions that might occur, in the course of Providence, if these small but effectual calls to repentance were universally and abundantly distributed. We say universally and abundantly—because though a few Tracts, carefully scattered, may and must do good, yet what can be produced by supplies so disproportionate to the wants of mankind, but here a blade of grass, and there perhaps a flower, where all was barren before, and where all is still barren around; whereas to make the wilderness and the solitary place to rejoice, and the desert to blossom like the rose, we must, in our measure, imitate the bounty of our heavenly Father, who causes the sun in his progress to shine on every spot of land and sea, and his rain to fall on the rock and the highway as well as on the fertile plain and the cultivated garden. Tracts must be unsparingly disseminated, to produce extensive and permanent effects. How many have been warned, reproved, instructed, restrained, encouraged, strengthened, established in faith, by the perusal of thousands and tens of thousands of little fugitive pieces, circulated by Tract Societies—can never be known till the day of judgment; but the records are in heaven, and there they will be held in everlasting remembrance. Spirits in glory, a million ages hence, may be telling their companions, what great things the Lord has done for them, on earth, by these humble instruments. If we knew of but one instance, in which by such means, a sinner has been turned from the error of his way, we might safely calculate on many more: nay, if we knew of none, we ought still to believe, that we might see the salvation of God—remembering that, while it is our duty to plant and to water, it is He, only, who giveth the increase. Having done our part, can we doubt that He has done his? The casual reading of a single page in one of these pamphlets, may under the blessings of God, be the earliest breath of a new birth, unto righteousness: the first step of pilgrimage to the heavenly Jerusalem. On this point we would dwell with peculiar emphasis, because from the very nature of tracts, the impressions which they make must gennerally transient, and their final effects may sometimes be ascribed to the secondary causes, of more immediate influence. Therefore we boldly address every friend of Zion, in the language of the son of David:—"In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand, for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether both shall be good alike."

A Tract lying in a cottage window is a preacher, with a message from God to every one who takes it up. The preacher will be in season and out of season; it will wait patiently till it can deliver its message, and will deliver it fully faithfully, without apology, equivocation, or respect of persons; it will fearlessly tell the truth, and we hope nothing but the truth; it will speak to the consience and it will teach the consience to speak.

ALEXANDRIA:

THURSDAY, October 10.

The Eastport Rumor.—The Boston Gazette of Thursday gives the rumor from Eastport, which was noticed in our last; and adds as follows:

"Since the receipt of the above, we have been told that the report as respects the seizure of American property, has probably arisen from the circumstance of a new collector being appointed at St. Andrews, in which district is comprehended Eastport, who deemed the indulgence of the former collector incorrect; and accordingly, had seized on all the merchandize which was judged to have been imported contrary to law. The merchants, having been so long indulged in a free trade, and not dreaming of such a change, were very naturally surprised; and of course, had spread alarms, calculated to awaken the public sensibility; but the suggestion of a war growing out of this circumstance, is ridiculous in the extreme."

Boundary line.—A paragraph has been going the rounds of the papers, stating, that the settlement of our boundary line, will give the United States 16 townships of Lower Canada, and their Fort and Island, the Isle au Noix. We have respectable authority for stating that this report is entirely incorrect. Gentlemen who are every way qualified, inform that they have repeatedly taken observations on the spot, for their own satisfaction, and have found the line, as it always has been received, is the true 45th degree or parallel of latitude. One of the commissioners for settling this line, passed thro' town yesterday and confirmed the above statement, which induces us to give it publicity. Would it not be better that this and all reports respecting this subject should be suspended, till the proper authority have decided on the boundary question. Portsmouth Gaz.

Extract of a letter from Amelia Island, dated Sept. 21, 1816, to a gentleman in Charleston.

"You ought to look out, for your laws seem to be of no avail. I have seen a great number of Africans, sent from Havanna to this place, who are intended to be smuggled to Savannah, and from thence, across the country to Charleston. Why not place one of the American navy, say only 14 guns, off our port, and the crew would make a fortune, by capturing a few of these smuggling vessels, as they have plenty of Specie on board, exclusive of Africans. By thus doing, not only a stop would be put to the traffic, but the depredators made to repent their unlawful commerce."

FORGERY.

Extract of a letter from Mr. Wm. W. Montgomery, of the house of Messrs. W. and I. Montgomery, of New-Orleans, to Capt. John Pratt, dated

"PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.

"Some rascal has been forging the name of my house in New-Orleans. I know of drafts to the amount of ten thousand dollars which are forged, and have been presented; and doubt not but there are still more which have not yet come forward—therefore be on your guard."

"N. B. A draft for $1848 41, on Messrs. Josiah Bradlee and Co. has been presented here. For further particulars, refer to Capt. John Pratt, or Messrs. Josiah Bradlee and Co. The bills appear to be copperplate, and endorsed by Charles T. Billings, and have been negociated in the western country."

The Season.—We regret to learn, from various parts, that the severe frosts on the nights of Thursday and Friday last, have destroyed in many places the good prospects which the Indian corn fields were presenting. Most of the vines are also destroyed. The weather since has been fine, and the fall feed promises to be abundant. The accounts from Maine are very unfavorable, and will call for provident exertions to prevent much distress.

Treaty Commission.—The British and American Commissioners, whose intended meeting at St. Andrews, has been announced, have met, and adjourned to May next, then to convene at Boston. They have, we learn, made the necessary arrangements for procuring surveys, and the collection of documents and evidence relative to the territory in controversy. The hon. Mr. Barclay has passed though town, on his return to New-York; and the hon Mr. Holmes has proceeded to Brunswick to take his seat in the Maine Convention. Col. Austin, one of the agents to the commission, has returned to town.

Albany, Oct. 4.

A Real Tragedy was exhibited at Sacket's Harbor, a few days since, before a large company of spectators. Attached to the show bill of a wire dancer appeared an advertisement of an Italian sailor, who promised to exhibit wonderful feats, such as the spectators had never before seen. Curiosity attracted a very full house. After the first had performed his part of the entertainment, the sailor entered, called for a blanket and pillow and laid himself down upon the floor. All eyes were turned towards him in anxious expectation, when he drew from his bosom a pistol, clapped the muzzle to his ear, and blew out his brains! This closed the entertainment.

As horrid as this deed appears, the deluded man who became its victim had undoubtedly anticipated as much eclat, as he does, who deliberately goes out to shoot his friend, or to be shot—in a duel. And if there are shades of difference in the two crimes, the self-murderer is the least criminal.

BALTIMORE, October 7.

Daring attempt at Robbery & Murder!

On Sunday last about dusk, a gentleman and lady of this city, who were returning in a gig from Harford, were assailed by two men, on the new Philadelphia Turnpike, a short distance beyond Murray's Tavern. One of the villains seized the bridle of the horse; the other came along side of the gig, and while in the act of making a desperate blow with a large club, was struck across the head by the gentleman, with the but end of his whip. The bludgeon struck the gentleman on the shoulder, passed into the face of the lady, and fell into the gig. The villain then called on the other, who held the horse, to "shoot!" which he was about to do with a pistol, when the gentleman jumped from the gig and ran along side, calling for help, which brought several persons to his assistance. The villains in the mean time decamped into the woods, and the gentleman and lady reached the city in safety. The men were dressed in blue, and the blow which the gentleman gave one of them may probably lead to their detection.

This is but one, we understand, of a number of similar daring attempts which have lately been made in that neighborhood. We would respectfully suggest to the proper authorities, the immediate necessity of offering a reward for the apprehension of those ruffians, who thus endanger the lives and property of our citizens.

Extract from Suggestions for producing Public Improvements, and affording employment to the Labouring Poor, by Mr. M. Phillips:—"Grateful as the country will feel for the subscriptions that will be raised for the assistance of the Poor, it is hoped such measures will be recommended to the attention of the Legislature as may place the lower order in a situation that will enable them to support themselves. The Landed Proprietors have now an opportunity, as many new arrangements must be made, of letting their lands in small farms, with a convenant in the lease for a plot sufficient to keep a cow to be allowed to the labouring cottage. No language sufficiently state the blessings to the community from small farms, or the evils that are felt where they have been monopolized; farm after farm have been added together, so that England has now become a nation of starving beggars, exhibiting at each vestry the most pitiable and heart broken objects. In many instances, within an hour's walk of a parish church, there were formerly from 50 to 100 happy families—their little farms industriously employed in producing not only the common articles of sustenance, but abundance of the comforts of life. Every cottager's child had its dish of milk, of which the hungry babes are now robbed. What is become of those happy useful families that so regularly, neatly piously, assembled every sunday at their parish churches; the good people who supplied the markets, the towns, and the villages, with such immense quantities of butter and cheese, pigs and poultry, and made the land to overflow with milk and honey? Alas! driven from their little kingdom, these once happy people, the husband, the wife, the sons, the daughters, are hurled into misery, wretchedness, and want. The distresses of the poor are greatly increased by enclosures of waste, or, in better words, common lands, which afforded great assistance to the surrounding cottages. The taking away these privileges was like taking from them a table furnished with provisions. To have kept them away from parish support crumbs at least have been thrown them—a trifling piece of land should have been alloted to each cottage.—Our fisheries should be extended.—If England had three times its number of inhabitants, every city town, and populous place might have an abundant and cheap supply of another species of food, namely, Fish, from an inexhaustible store; & thousands of hands belonging to and connected with the Fisheries could find employment. Every place in the country should have an interest in promoting our Fisheries.

"Oh God! thou dost prepare,
Through earth, the sea, and air,
A bounteous Bill of Faver."

Some thousands of workmen may be employed for a time in the improvement of roads, excavating hills, and upon the works in the different harbours.

CURIOUS MANUSCRIPTS.

Upwards of 300 original manuscript letters of John, the first duke of Marlborough, chiefly addressed to the then secretary of State, sir Charles Hedges, and many of them containing matter of very considerable interest, were on Tuesday last sold by public auction. These letters, together with three notes of her majesty Queen Anne to her favorite secretary, were sold for 570 guineas. Most of the Duke of Marlborough's letters were written during his brilliant career on the continent in the beginning of the last century, and contain, besides military details, some curious diplomatic particulars. Some few of the letters, were written, it would appear, in part of his Graces' confidential secretary, at times probably when the nature of his high official duties afforded him not much personal leisure: but even in those instances they are all concluded by a line or two in his own hand, and finally signed by himself. The duke, as one of his letters, states, that he was in the hands of the enemy five hours, but that he was providentially taken for gen. Churchill, and that he escaped, without the enemy being aware of the prize they had within their power!

The superciption or address of Queen Anne's notes is in a form which prevails to a considerable extent at the present day; the word For is used in the following manner:

For
Sir Charles Hedges,
&c. &c.

The notes themselves do honor to the head and heart of the queen. Two of them are upon the melancholy subject of the execution of a capital convict of the name of Jeffries. They are dated Tuesday and Wednesday. The first encloses to the minister, a petition which her majesty had received in favor of the culprit upon which she says to her minister, "it appears he has a wife and six children," and concludes "if it be a case of compassion" that is, a case where mercy can be properly shown, "take care that his life may be saved."

The other note, of the following day, states, that she has "been so pressed by the woman" the wife of Jeffries, no doubt; and positively commands a respite of the execution to afford time for a full inquiry into the circumstances of the case.

The third communication from her Majesty is of an open letter, which she had written to lord Peterborough, and thus submits to the perusal of her secretary. There is nothing in the envelope by which the nature of this letter can be inferred.

Her Majesty uniformly subscribes herself,

"Your very affectionate friend
"ANNE R."

The hand writing of Queen Anne was very peculiar: we have seen several years ago the signature of this princess; it was in the possession of an English gentleman now no more. Her majesty wrote her name in a very diminutive hand, thus: Anne R. (Anne Regina.) The same gentleman had likewise in his possession, the signatures of Queen Elizabeth and of his present majesty, which he favored us with a sight of. The hand writing of Elizabeth was in a large bold decided masculine hand, and the same remark will hold true with regard to the signature of king George. The papers to which these signatures were attached, required their majesty's signatures manual, so that their authenticity could not be doubted.

LUXURY.

A traveller was lately boasting of the luxury of arriving at night, after a hard day's journey, to partake of the enjoyment of a well cut ham, and the left leg of a goose. Pray, sir, what is the peculiar luxury of a left leg? "Sir, to conceive its luxury, you must find that it is the only leg left."

A wit remarks—"The Ladies of Maine, it is said, are opposed to a separation, and all are for union—TO A MAN."

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, KING STREET,

Have just received from LEE'S PATENT MEDICINE Store, No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York.

A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is so often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tenia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens it is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number, when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout asthmatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellant minerals (the basis of other lotions) and of unparralled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural, insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth and improving the complexion.

The Restorative Powder for the teeth and Gums.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness, which suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

Land for Sale.

A TRACT or parcel of LAND, containing between two and three hundred acres, on the north side of Occoquan, in Fairfax county, about 5 miles west of Occoquan mills—it is well watered with never failing springs, it is also well timbered, and the great quantity of fine timber on it renders it the more valuable to any person in the coopering line. This land is of the middle soil, and produces corn, wheat, or any other grain tolerable well—there is about 100 acres cleared and under good fence. The improvements are a log dwelling house and other out-houses, and a good apple orchard of about 60 trees. Any person inclining to purchase can view the premises and know the terms by applying to the subscriber who lives near the premises, or Henry S. Holley, jun. at Occoquan mills, or John H. Holley near Fairfax court house.
